

CARA BAHAMAS 2010 CONFERENCE for investors and traders

January 15 to 20 | Our Lucaya Resort | Freeport, Grand Bahama

Details of the Vadym Graifer sessions

January 19

Market information vs. price action: What investors should learn from traders | 1 hour

- How often have you done thorough research and figured out what the market will do, only to see it doing the exact opposite. Learn why that happens and how to turn this phenomenon to your advantage.
- Delve into the eternal conflict between information and price. Learn how to move from endless frustration to consistent profits.

Basic chart reading | 1 hour, 30 minutes

- This session goes deeply into analyzing aspects of price action that you will find practical. Any chart is a reflection of mass psychology as it moves the market. A chart can be broken down and analyzed in order to maximize your chances of success. Position yourself on the "smart money" side and avoid the "crowd" side – by simply watching price and volume.

Correlation between particular stocks and the broad market | 45 minutes

- Broad market action influences trading strategies in any given timeframe. Incorporating this correlation in your trading regime is not as straightforward as opening long positions in a strong market or shorting in a weak one. There is a multi-sided relationship between market movements and specific stock behavior. Use this simple, very powerful and visual approach as a stand-alone trading system or as an invaluable complement to your strategy.

IF-THEN scenarios and trading setups | 1 hour

- The role that IF-THEN scenarios should play in your trading is difficult to over-estimate. This session will highlight their role and the right way to design them. The logical outcome of such scenarios is a trading setup. Learn the elements of such setups and how to structure them in order to minimize the risk and maximize the chances of profitable trading. Examples of the setups described in this session demonstrate how to incorporate the visuals of market psychology into your trading.

Trading psychology | 1 hour, 30 minutes

- Your mindset can thoroughly undermine your trading results. Have you ever violated your own trading rules even though you knew better? You knew what your trading system required you to do, but you just couldn't do it. You may even have allowed a single loss to ruin your performance for the month. We will discover why it happens and what to do about it.

Risk control: How to use stops | 1 hour

- One of the crucial elements of your trading approach is strict and disciplined risk control. Learn how to keep losses small, how to place stops, how to make sure losses are under control and do not drag down your whole account. We will discuss this topic in depth. If you think you can trade without losses at all – make sure you attend this session!

Swing trading video | 1 hour

- This 45-minute video is a recording of an actual swing trade in NASDAQ 100 e-mini. The trade is based on all the principles discussed in previous sessions and demonstrates how they come together in a process of decision-making. Each day is narrated as corrections are made, stops trailed, and targets re-adjusted. Learn how to analyze the factors that influence trading decisions.

January 20

Real-time live trading | 09:00 – 13:00

- Sit down with Vadym at a trading screen. Watch him scan for trades and execute them. It's real trading based on everything you learned on Day 1. He will discuss everything we see and do as it happens.

Free discussion with Q/A | 1 to 2 hours

- Free format. Discuss with Vadym anything you learned or experienced over these two days.
